A Master's and Doctoral Level Certificate indicates that the person listed below has passed an adaptive Certification Test by correctly answering enough questions on recognizing word-for-word and paraphrasing plagiarism.

Please read the information below carefully. You can submit this confirmation certificate to your academic department or program area, if they require you to do so. To print this Certificate, please use the "print" command of your browser while you are on this page or select the print button below. Once it is printed, you can sign it and turn it in to the appropriate office.

> I have studied the pages of the "How to Recognize Plagiarism" tutorial site. After doing so, I have taken the test available on the site. I am confident that I know what plagiarism is and how to avoid it. If I had questions after finishing the tutorial, this document confirms that I have sought help from my academic advisor and I do now understand what plagiarism is and how to avoid it.

Instructors should note that there is no practical way of determining whether the student above is indeed the one who took the test, unless it is taken under proctored conditions. Certificates with identical time stamps should not be accepted, since the chances of this occurring are extremely unlikely. Certificates should never have the same unique ID number.
